Virtual Learning Support: Building Independent Learners
About this Resource

Managing work, family, and school is a very difficult balancing act. While students continue to learn virtually from home, we created this resource highlighting strategies and templates you can use today to make virtual learning more manageable for your family.

Creating a Schedule

For Students:
- Create a schedule that follows their school’s schedule.
- Creating a consistent routine is important for children.
- Plan for Breaks:
  - Make sure children take a break from any screen during this time.
  - Use breaks and free-time to promote physical activities.

CREATE YOUR SCHEDULE:
Create a schedule in the space below. Create a schedule that aligns with your child’s school and allows you to maximize your own time.

Establishing an Agreement

Having clear list of expectations is useful for creating consistency and accountability for your child.

Use the space below to create goals, rules, consequences, and incentives for your students while learning virtually. Create a separate contract for each child.

Make you and your scholar understand and agree to the contract you create and sign (or write their name).

As a student, I agree to:

---

As a parent/guardian, I agree to:

---

If you and your child agree, sign (or write) your names below:

_____________________________________________                        _____________________________________________

Parent Signature  Student Name or Signature

_____________________________________________
Morning Check-In: Setting Goals
Check in with your child before school starts to set goals for the day. For elementary aged children, focus on 1 goal. For middle school students, focus on 1 - 3 attainable goals.

Daily Goals:

_______________________________________________________
_______________________________________________________
_______________________________________________________
_______________________________________________________

Lunch Check-In: Glows & Grows
If you can, check in with your child during lunch time. Use this time to have a positive conversation with your child about their day so far. Are they meeting the goals they set in the morning? What can they improve on?

Glows: What is going well?
_______________________________________________________
_______________________________________________________

Grows: What could you do better?
_______________________________________________________

Afternoon Check-in: How was your day?
After school is complete, check in with your child about how their day went. Discuss what they learned in school, and what they enjoyed. Be sure to ask what homework they have and when those assignments are due. Use this time to ask them if they met their goals for the day.

What did you learn?

Creating a Learning Space

Creating a Safe Learning Space:

- Set up a space specifically for learning at a desk or table.
- Minimize distractions: avoid highly populated areas.
- Try to put up academic resources on walls (ex: word / number chart)
- Create separate spaces for physical activity, quiet time, and eating.

CREATE YOUR BLUE PRINT:
Use the space below to make a blueprint of your learning space. Draw a diagram of available rooms.
General Support:

- The Registrar or Secretary will often be your point of contact for attendance related issues.
- The school’s principal, assistant principals, or deans may be able to provide you with more resources.

Find Your Schools' Contact Information:
Before you can plan a schedule, you should get the contact information for your student’s school. From attendance related issues to academic support, it is helpful to have the contact information for the following positions:

- Registrar
- Secretary
- Principal
- Assistant Principal / Dean

Behavioral / Emotional Support:

- Coordinating with your students’ counselors will provide them important mental health supports.
- If your student has a social worker in school, having their contact information may be helpful for extra support.

Counselor / Social Worker Contact Information:
Insert the contact information for all your student’s counselors or social workers. It is important to have mental health supports for your students in addition to academic support.

Enter the contact information for your school below:

Academic Support:

- You can work with the teachers to provide extra materials or support that is aligned with virtual instruction.
- If your student has an IEP, or a 504 Plan, coordinating with the school's special education coordinator would be helpful.

Teacher Contact Information:
Get the contact information for all of your students' teachers. Insert the contact information for all teachers below:

<table>
<thead>
